FORTY-THIRD YEAR.

Not Only a Victim of Circumstances Attending His Birth, but Also

Declared an Incurable Mental Invalid by an Emineat Physician.

OTHER GOSSIP OF THE CONTINENT.

Young Emperor William's Antipathy to His Father's Memory and to His Mother's Person Explained in a Charitable Manper-He Had Much Better Been of Ignoble Birth - The Present Ear Trouble Bound to be Fatal-His Mind New Seldom His Own-Bismarck Thought to be Taking Advantage of the Situation in His Own Way-Merier Hated Because of a Supposed Lenk to the Enemy.

The development of the mental phases of the young German Emperor's character becoming daily a more -distasteful subject to contemplate. His ear trouble, it is asserted, great doctor. No system was followed out will sometime cause an explosion that can't be smothered, as some have already. He's often not mentally responsible for his acts, and the growth of his disease is but a question of time, as it is incurable. It has as yet shown itself most prominently in the hatred of the young Kaiser for the memory of his father and the person of his august mother. The hatred of Morier due to the fact that he was too friendly with Germany's enemy, while also a friend of Freder-

(BY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.) LONDON, January 5 .- [Copyright.]-The study of the young German Emperor's personality is one which becomes each day more curious and distasteful. If he had been born to a social condition suited to his ability, he would have been simply worded as a disagreeable young man, piqued to some extent, perhaps having had his disposition soured by a physical deformity; but he is looked upon as altogother too much of a braggart to be deserving of great sympathy.

As a chief of a great nation and the master of the greatest army in the world, however, it is the first business of every one whom European affairs interest to follow carefully the development of his mental is made each day more apparent. Many in his unfilial course by Bismarck, whose personal hatred for the Empress Frederick is as notorious as his rage at the publication of her husband's diary, which sought to rob Bismarek of the glory of having transformed his master, the King of Prussia.

Forever Fighting His Father's Memory, However great or insignificant may be the influence of Bismarck's promptings, young William is tireless in his task of latest display of contempt for his father's judgment has been so marked as to create comment in every quarter of Europe. When the disease reaches a certain point Among Frederick's latest acts was the dismissal from the Prussian Cabinet of Herr Von Puttkamer, who was charged with electoral malpractices and was undoubtedly guilty. Three days ago Puttkamer received from young William the highest distinction in the German Emperor's gift, the Order of the Black Eagle.

Again, the present attack on Sir Robert Morier is an indirect blow at the memory of Emperor Frederick, Morier, who is now the British Embassador at St. Petersburg, was stationed during the Franco-Prussian war at Darmstadt. Morier was then and later the intimate friend of the late em-

Morier Accused of Rank Trenchery. In the refutation of Frederick's diary Bismarck flatly declared that Frederick was not allowed to possess any war secrects, for fear he would betray them to England, which was full of French sympathies. Now, in support of this insinuation, and in order to show that Frederick actually did enemy except by running against his ships, betray German secrets to France's friend, first information of the German forces having crossed the Moselle. This accusation has palpably the support and encouragement of the highest German authorities. Admission to the State archives has been granted to the Cologne Gazette to aid it in strengthening its case against Morier, and the latter receives from Herbert Bismarck an emphatical refusal of any opportunity to vindicate himself through the official press, which has attacked him. Morier, though he may possibly have communicated official secrets to the French, as asserted, certainly deserves to be considered innocent until some facts against him are produced. He had no possible interest to serve, and the only evidence against him is a conversation which an unknown German, Major von Veiner, declares he had with Bazaine, and the latter, who figures as the accuser, is himself a convicted traitor and unworthy of belief. Beznine's Wretched End Recalled. Beside all this. Baznine before his death wrote to say he did not know Morier during the war, and never got any news from him. The poor, wretched Bazaine toward the end of his life was reduced to borrowing shillings, and neither his revelutions nor denink are important. A ridiculous assertion is put forward to explain the fierceness of the official German | are being done into Irish, though for what attack, namely, that Herbert Bismarck having been wounded in the fight which followed Bazaine's receipt of the news about the crossing of the Moselle, hankers for revenge on Morier, who supplied the news Herbert, it is true, was shot in the thigh in the charge which the Germans like to describe as a "death ride," but it, has never bothered him much and has left no effects. and earned him the Iron Cross, so that it was rather a good thing for him. In Paris, two days ago, I talked about Emperor William with a friend of mine whose fame as a medical man is world-wid and obtained for THE DISPATCH readers some most interesting and definite information as to the young ruler's physical condition. My information may be relied upon Doubly Unlucky in His Birth.

"Beyond any question of doubt, young William was unlucky in the first place," said my friend, "in having a Princess for a mother, and equally so in having been born a Prince. These two circumstances account for his unhappy deformity. The usually accepted accounts of its nature and origin are imaginative rubbish. The Crown Princess Frederick was, as is generally CRAZED BY AN EAR TROUBLE known, traveling in an out-of-the-way place at a very indiscreet period. The birth of the present German Emperor was unexpected, and he was helped into the world by some little obscure doctor with an awe of royalty far in excess of his knowledge of surgery. If he had been allowed to think that his patient was simply an ordinary woman, of strong physique, all would probably have been well, but the fact was carefully impressed upon him that he had in hands the life of the future Queen and the birth, perhaps, of the heir to the Prussian throne. This so demoralized the little doctor that he added the strength of his own muscles to the forces of nature, and so severed all the muscles of the infant's left

> Had Better Been a Grocer's Son. "When I was called to Windsor by Queen Victoria, to attend the little boy, I saw at once that his case was hopeless. If he had been a grocer's son some good doctor would have been called in and one sound method of cure adopted and followed. As he was a prince, however, he had been seen by every and the worst possible result of the accident ensued, complete atrophy of the arm. It is wasted completely away, and is probably smaller than when I examined him as a boy at Windsor. Fortunately, such wonderful skill has been shown by the German surgeons as to save him from the mortification of having it plainly seen that one of his arms is simply the withered arm of a child. The withered limb is padded out in a most lifelike fashion, and not only that, but within the padding is a most wonderbut within the padding is a most wonder-fully clever machine, a series of strings and cords, acting like the muscles of the arm. These artificial muscles are connected with the good muscles of the shoulder most adroitly, so that, while in a natural condi-tion, he would be incapable of moving his withered arm, this most ingenious mechan-ism enables him to impart to it movements that are always lifelibe. He can reise or that are almost lifelike. He can raise or lower his artificial hand, and use it sufficiently well to guide the carefully trained and broken chargers which are selected for

The readers of THE DISPATCH will remember that I have frequently insisted upon the great gravity of the disease which concentrated in the unlucky Emperor's head, and which is officially described as a slight affection of the ear. My statements as to the seriousness of this trouble were based upon authentic information from the Berlin Court, and are confirmed by the comments of the physician quoted above.
"The Emperor's deformity," said he, "is nothing, except as it mortifies and irritates phases. His hirred of his father and mother an extremely proud and sensitive man, but the disease in his head is one which may have most serious consequences for all Eu-rope. It may drive the Emperor to the most extravagant acts, or suddenly, by kill-ing him, end the endless speculation as to what his career may be. I cannot tell you positively that it already makes him insan at intervals, but he was insane when he de-livered certain speeches which his advisers were compelled to revise and interpret offi-cially. He is mentally deranged by his suffering and the direct effect of his malady is upon his brain.

An Explosion Bound to Come. "All the skill of the doctors about the Emperor is concentrated into a fight with the disease that is growing in his head. fighting the memory of his father. His Once already it has gone beyond the control there will come an explosion, and the Emperor will either die or become hopelessly insane. Just what the disease is I will not say. Its nature may be described as that of a tumor or an abnormal growth within the brain. The skill of his physicians may fight off the final stages of the disease for a onger period than at present seems proba-de, but there is very little hope that they will be able to cure it. The young Empero is decidedly an unlucky man. The old Em peror suffered, which is not generally known, from petit mal, a form of epilepsy, and his grandson, who has inherited the trouble, is affiicted with fits of an epileptic character. BRITAIN A POOR WAVE RULER.

Her Navy Not Nearly Half It Has Bee Cracked Up to Be.

THY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, January 5 .- The English are gradually waking up to the fact that their navy is not what they have imagined it. The statement that 16 armor-clad ships are all ready to sail, but could not hurt an as they have no guns, has borne Morier is accused of having supplied the British naval deficiency strongly in Bazaine, the leader of the French, with his upon British minds. Lord Charles Beresford is working hard to get things into condition, and will not accept any half measures. At a dinner last night he de-clared that he wouldn't rest until he had induced Parliament to make the fleet of this country strong enough to defend its shores and its commerce against the fleets of any other two nations, one of them to be France, which is very nearly, if not quite equal to England in naval strength, a fact that makes it uncomfortable for the traditional ruler of the waves. Lord Salisbury, in a recent speech, ha shown that the complaints of frightened Englishmen, led by the Telegraph, as to the incomplete defenses of the country, have at last affected him, and England may be expected very soon to be asked for a tremendously large sum, to get in fighting condi-tion. Certain tables recently produced, showing the war strength of the European nations, has caused England, with her handful of soldiers, to reflect that things are not

A CHANCE FOR THE MAORI.

The Bible to be Translated So That the Bonster Can Rend It.

TBY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.1 PARIS, January 5 .- The Scriptures are being worked at very industriously just now, to get them into shape for various readers. Prince Lucien Bonaparte is revising the proofs of a Basque edition, and the Act reason is not clear. An edition of the New Testament in Swedish and Finnish is being prepared, as well as versions of the complete Bible in various Chinese dialects and the Maori language. This last will give an opportunity to the big and boastful man who met Sullivan in Madison Square Garden to read in his own language about pride going before a fall, which was so distinctly borne home to him.

Blamarck's Cause f. Ferocity. "BY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.)

BERLIN, January 5.—[Copyright.]— Prince Bismarck is again suffering with neuralgia and the lack of sleep which accompanies it. This may account to some extent for the ferocity with which he pursued Sir Robert Morier through the press. The Dervishes Dissatisfied With Him-Emis

Bey Again Said to be a Captive. SUAKIM, January 5,—One of Osman Digna's lieutenants has deserted his leader and has arrived here. The deserter reports that the rebels are enraged with Osman Digna for seizing their effects and their wives, he giving as his reason that the rebels chewed tobacco which is contrary

sirous of retiring from the town.

Major General Sir Francis Grenfell, who commanded the British forces at the battle at Suakim on Thursday, is the Sirdar of the Egyptian army. He has had a varied experience, having served in the Griqualand expedition of 1875, and against the Kaffirs and Zulus in 1878 and 1879, taking an active part in the battles of Quintana Mountain and Ulundi. For his distinguished conduct during the lastmentioned engagement he was commended in the official dispatches. He was a member of Lord Woiselev's staff during the Tel-el-Kebir campaign, and took part in the maintenance of the lines of communication when the expedition subsequently ascended the Nile to relieve Gordon. Afterward he commanded a division of the frontier field force at Giniss. General Grenfell is 47 years old, and is said to be very popular in the army. Last year he was married to a daughter of General Blucher Wood,

The Dying King of Holland Has a Caree uncomfortable circumstances, which are calculated to make him reflect seriously on deeds of his to chronicle, are regaling their how he used to present invariably to one of his favorites—an American, by the way, and the wife of an accom-plished musician—a little bird cage with a bird in it, each time she visited him in Holland, and how she invariably

POLITICS MUST BE IN IT.

LONDON, January 5 .- [Copyright.]-Mr. Gladstone, in talking to the young man from the Riforma, has told us about his trip to Rome and his visit to the Pope. He has expressed his opinion that the holy father's temporal power is incompatible with the liberty and unity of Italy, but that the person of the Pope was very near his heart, and that he desired to see him surrounded with every respect and prestige, and with full guarantees of his authority. It is perhaps permissible to doubt the Grand Old Man's statement that his call at the Vatican would be a mere act of politeness in passing through Rome and have no relation to po

IBY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH. marck's prestige, was due to the Empress Frederick, by whom the tone of the diary was evidently inspired.

As it has been impossible, apparently, to prove this, Gefficken, who sobbingly came back from Heligoland to be locked up, is now allowed to go and continue has studies

ROYALTY VERY FORGETFUL.

II's morganatic wife.

For bringing about this match, which didn't please the rest of the Czar's family, the General was promptly expelled from Russia, and his friends, who are numerous, freely express their opinion that the Princess, whose marriage brought her a great many millions, might at least have

ANOTHER ON THE LIST.

Lady Shaftesbury Joins the Ranks of Wom en Who Earn Their Living.

(BY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.) Shaftesbury, niece of the Marquis of Donegal, is now to be added to the list of sensible women who have gone into business to get money and make their titles and social the sale of farm and dairy produce, a por-tion of which comes from her own property.

KING MILAN OUT OF TROUBLE.

His Ministers Send in Their Resignati Which are Accepted.

PRY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH. LONDON, January 5,-King Milan has got over his trouble in a manner which has considerably increased respect for his ad-roitness and courage. Servia has now a

HIS GAME OF BLUFF. OSMAN DIGNA IN TROUBLE,

Has Blaine Played His Last and Best Card and Failed to Win, or

> IS THE PORTFOLIO IN HIS POCKET? Harrison Worried by Indiana Aspirants for

to the precepts laid down by the Mah-He also reports that 2,000 dervishes squabbling with Osman Digna concerning the evacu ation of the place a majority of the dervishes being de-

Major General Grenfell, clares that Emin Commander at Suakim. Bey has been cap-tured, and that he is a prisoner at Khar-toum, where he is well treated by his captors.

Major General Sir Francis Grenfell, who

A LIFE TO BE REGRETTED.

He Can't be Proud Of.

IBY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH. THE HAGUE, January 5 .- Old King William III, of Holland, is dying under the folly of wasting a large fortune and boundless opportunity in the pursuit of pleasures for one's self. While he is dying the newspapers, which have no praiseworthy reminiscences of his early days. It is told disposed of it, not caring for sentiment, to the first railroad guard on the way home; how his devotions for a certain Emilie, a clever actress, took the form of regularity sending her the menu of what he had to eat, while he insisted she should send him hers in return; how he spent millions in cover-ing women with jewels who laughed at him for his folly, and so on, with, perhaps, a few words at the end of the article, showing how he might have done better and not worn out his health and used up his fortune, had he not been so unfortunate as never to meet the right kind of a woman on his journey

Gindstone Thought to Have Had a Quiet Word on Home Rule With the Pope. IBY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH.

litical affairs.

It will be very surprising indeed, if Mr. Gladstone does not expend some of his elo-quence in inducing the Pope to take a different view of the Irish question from that which has recently been submitted to him by Lord Salisbury's envoys.

BISMARCK MAGNANIMOUS.

His Release of Gefficken Shows He Considers the Little Doctor Beneuth Him.

LONDON, January 5 .- [Copyright.]-The news of Dr. Gefficken's release shows that Bismarck can occasionally be magnanimous. He didn't wait to injure that unimportant little scientific man, evidently considering him beneath his vengeance, and he has simply kept him confined, with the nope, as I wrote at the time of his arrest, of proving what is undoubtedly true, that Gef-ficken was but a tool, and that the publication of the diary written to decrease Bisnow allowed to go and continue his studies.

The Princess Dolgorouki Falls to At Her Benefactor's Funeral.

IBY CABLE TO THE DISPATCH. PARIS. January 5 .- The celebrated Russian General, Count Toris Melikoff, died at the beginning of this week at Nice, and his friends are greatly indignant that Princess Youriewsky was not there. He was an intimate friend of the late Czar, and through his influence it came about that Princess ouriewsky Dolgorouki became Alexander appeared at the funeral.

LONDON, January 5.- The name of Lady et money and make their titles and social ositions worth having. She has started a store at Bournmouth for brand new constitution, and next week will have a new ministry, for all the ministers sent in their resignations to-night, and the King has accepted them.

show General Harrison plans from which he should make his selection of carriages.

It has been said that the buying of horses has been trusted to Colonel Bridgeland, of this city, formerly Consul to Havre, but the Colonel denies it and says he does not even know that General Harrison is going to buy any horses. Colonel Bridgeland is a raiser of draught horses himself. The Studebakers are interested with some New Jerseymen in the same business having a large men in the same business, having a large ranch in Colorado where they raise mam-

PITTSBURG, SUNDAY, JANUARY

Cabinet Jobs. PREPARING FOR THE INAUGURATION.

The President-Elect Purchasing a State Carriage and The latest news from Indianapolis is that maybe Blaine will be Secretary of State, and maybe he won't. As this has been the prevailing opinion for some time, it is comforting to have it confirmed. The Presidentelect has taken time, while engaged in constructing his Cabinet, to order a State carriage, and will purchase horses to draw him to the White House on March 4. (SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATE 1.1 INDIANAPOLIS, January 5.-1f Mr. Blaine's game is one of bluff there is no doubt he has thrown up his hands, unless he has all the aces up his sleeve and his letter of appointment in his inside pocket. It is certain as anything that is not certain can be that the story of his being about to come to Indianapolis was the highest card in his hand and that it has proved worth-The game opened some six weeks ago, when a correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, whose relations with Blaine are Enquirer, whose relations with Blaine are said to be very close, telegraphed from New York that the portfolio of the Department of State had been formally tendered to Mr. Blaine, and that he had accepted it. The correspondence on the subject, he said, would be made public in a few hours. The correspondence has yet to see the light of publicity, but from that day to this morning the Enquirer's correspondent has never admitted, even in the most indirect way, that there was any doubt that his original statement was substantially correct.

ment was substantially correct. INSPIRED BY MR. BLAINE. The Enquirer printed a dispatch from the same correspondent dated at Washington, and bearing every evidence of having been inspired, if not by Mr. Blaine, then by his intimate friends, in which he says: "I still believe Mr. Blaine has been tendered and will accept the Portfolio of State. I likewise helieve that if up to this writing Mr. will accept the Poxtfolio of State. I likewise believe that if, up to this writing, Mr. Blaine has not been tendered the State Portfolio, that he will not be President Harrison's Secretary of State. By this I do not seek to make the impression that it may not be offered to him; on the contrary that it will be.

Mr. Blaine, however, could hardly accept it after the idea had been fixed that he was not seeking to break into the Cabinet. It would, if he did not comport with his usual dignity and pride. To await until the eleventh hour to determine where to place Mr. Blaine, and meanwhile have his enemies malign and misrepresent him would, indeed, be an ungracious act. The acceptance of the place under such conditions would be no honor to him or credit to the one tendering the appointment."

MAYBE HE WOULDN'T TAKE IT. Of course the correspondent who wrote this may not be at all the mouthpiece of Mr. Blaine, and what he says may be mere speculation, but nobody among the poli-ticians here takes that view of it, and opinion is almost unanimous that the friends of Blaine have at last concluded that it was of no use to try and break into the Cabinet, and are doing the best they can for their champion by seeking to create an impression that he would not take the office now if it were tendered to him.

The general belief is that the story of Blaine's intention of coming here was a feeler, and that when it was met by the prompt statement from the Harrison house that if he did so it would be upon merely a general invitation, the Blaine men decided that they might as well drop the game. If these ideas are carried out, a lot of in-teresting political history will leak out as time passes. Some scattered links are al-ready available. It is as good as known that the original statement of Blaine's ap-pointment was made by the correspondent of the Enquirer upon the authority Walker Blaine.

ANOTHER SENSATIONAL STORY. One of the other sensational reports of the period was the story sent out from New York to the same newspaper that General Harrison was coming here to be the guest of Steve Elkins, attached to which were various prognostications as to the Blaine aspect of such a visit. It is alleged that the facts upon which that story was based came from Steve Elkins himself, and that he has since admitted his responsibility for them. but there was nothing in the story just the same. The yarn about Blaine's contem-plated trip here has the same car marks as the others, but just where the responsibility for it lies is not known here.

While the Blaine question is worrying the Indiana politicians, there is good ground for saying that General Harrison himself is a deal more bothered over the Indiana poli-ticians than he is over the statesman from Maine. It is known that he is very much vexed over the shape in which the Huston and the Porter booms have been forced upon his attention recently. KILLED BY THEIR PRIENDS. Even if he had any idea of appointing either of these men, the action of the friends of one in serving him with written demands signed by most of the Chairmen of the Republican County Committees in the State and of the friends of the other in starting a regular literary bureau in his behalf, have placed serious obstacles in the way of the President-elect. The most reasonable conclusion, however is that General Harrison has no intention o appointing either man, and is vexed be-cause their claims have been presented to him in such shape that he must offend a lot of people in ignoring them.

General Harrison has bought his inauguration carriage, and it is now being made by a well-known firm of manufacturers in this State. It will be what is called a state this State. It will be what is called a state coach, a sort of a large landau, and its price is $2,000, which is the sum that General Harrison will pay for it, he having insisted that he should be charged the regular price. From the same makers the President-elect has ordered a family shopping carriage to cost $1,000. Besides this he has made arrangements for securing for his use in Washington a stable of probably a half dozen horses, all to be at least 16 hands high and cherry bay in color. The whole outfit is expected to be in Washington ready for ise by March 4.

THE BOOMERS AND THEIR BOOMLETS When the local newspapers announced this afternoon that Clem Studebaker, of South Bend, Ind., and P. E. Studebaker, of Chicago, had arrived in the city and would call on General Harrison, it was taken for granted that the boom for Blaine was to get a boost, and that incidently ex-Governor Porter's boomiet would get a boostlet. Clem Studebaker was a delegate to the last Clem Studebaker was a delegate to the last Chicago Convention, and is reported to be a Blaine man. P. E. Studebaker is his brother, and was a delegate to the Republicau Convention eight years ago, and won fame by sticking to the 305 under somewhat trying circumstances. The brothers did call upon the President-elect to-day, but the object of their visit was not to talk for either Blaine or Porter, though no doubt they did say a word for both of those men, but to

IS SHE HIS WIFE? Miss Jounte A. Stoner, a Noted Educations Worker, Claims the Estate of A. Penn

Lusk on the Ground That She, Was Married to Him

Some Years Ago. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. 1 HARRISBURG, January 5 .- The auditor ppointed to distribute about $60,000 belong ng to the estate of the late A. Penn Lusk who died in this city last year, are finding who died in this city last year, are finding much trouble in disposing of it, twing to a claim made by Jennie E. Stoner, a former resident of this city, against the estate of the deceased on the ground that she was married to Mr. Lusk in 1882.

Miss Stoner taught school here for many years and held the position of Superintendent of the infant Sunday school department for 13 years. She traveled extensively in Europe, and attended a noted conference in Switzerland as a delegate from this country. She was highly educated and established a good reputation as a public talker. According to her story she became acquainted with Mr. Lusk in 1879. They were never known as man and wife, and the claim that she had been married to him created great surprise here. A child was born to her several years ago, and in his will, the alleged father set aside $3,000 in trust for it. He also left its mother some property.

nother some property.

Mr. Lusk was the brother-in-law of Mr. James J. Dull, one of Harrisburg's wealthiest citizens, who has been made the admin-istrator of the estate. The auditors in the istrator of the estate. The auditors in the case have had a petition presented to them by the claimant's counsel asking for an issue to try the question of fact as to the marriage of Mr. Lusk to the woman. The petition is supported by the woman's affidavit alleging marriage to Mr. Lusk. Her counsel want to prove her marriage by her testimony, but the auditors are not sure as to her competency as a witness and have posther competency as a witness, and have post-poned action on the question until next Monday to enable them to thoroughly ex-amine the law of 1887, known as the witness act, and other statutes. This is said to be the first time a question of this kind has ome before a court of law.

A REMARKABLE WOMAN DIES.

She Married at 89 and Lived to Enjoy 13 Years of a Honeymoon.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] LEXINGTON, KY., January 5 .- Mrs. J. Chinn died in this city last Wednesday f pneumonia at the great age of 102 years. Not only was she remarkable for her age, but also for the fact that she was married at a time of life which but few people attain. Her marriage took place just 13 years to a day before her death. Her husband was only seven years younger, their ages being 89 and 82 years respectively at the time of their nuptials.

Dr. Chinn had once been Mayor of this city, and both come of old families. Their health was excellent, and both appeared younger by many years than their actual age. Mrs. Chinn preserved her mental faculties to aremarkable degree. She was a fine coversationalist, and had an almost unimpaired memory. She was a devoted member of the Christian Church, or Campbellities as the decompation is gracually bellites, as the denomination is generally termed. Her large fortune was liberally handled. Dr. Chinn survives his aged wife and is still in good health.

PERJURY AND CONSPIRACY. Ugly Charges Against a Brudford Hotel Keeper Arrested in Buffalo. PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 BUFFALO, January 5 .- John A. Buttereld, a prominent hotel keeper at Bradford Pa., was decoyed by a detective to Buffalo this afternoon, and arrested on a charge of perjury. The complainant, George W. Rockwell, an ex-United States detective charges Butterfield with having falsely sworn that Rockwell was married to Anni Dempsey. Rockwell subsequently married a rich spinster who willed him her fortune. Her brother contested the will and on But-terfield's evidence Judge Haight pro-nounced his marriage a fraud and decided Rockwell says he is the victim of conspir ators, and that Butterfield is the first of many enemies whom he will prosecute.

AFRAID TO GO TO SEA. The Scythia's Firemen Refuse to Sail on an Alleged Overloaded Boat. [SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] BOSTON, January 5 .- Just previous to the our for the departure of the Cunard steamship Scythia, this afternoon, a gang of 20 men, with their baggage, were seen leaving the vessel. These men were a majority of the steamer's firemen, and they had refused to go to sea in her, claiming that she was overloaded, and that it would be dan gerous to cross the ocean on her. The steamer started from her dock on time, but brought up at quarantine, and waited for the arrival of her new men who had been hastily collected. She pointed her nose seaward at 3:30 o'clock. The pilot admitted to night that there has been trouble, but he refused to state the circumstances. An investigation will reveal ome interesting facts.

LOSING OUR NAVY.

The Yantic Having Yellow Fever on Board

Will Probably be Destroyed. SPECIAL TRLEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. NEW YORK, January 5 .- The news that rellow tever has broken out on the United States ship Yantic, in Hayti, is being discussed with interest at the Brooklyn navy yard. The possibility of the Atlanta being sent to take her place is also being canvassed. The Yantic has never had the tever on board before, and, as she is a wooden ship, naval officers say she may as well be determed. well be destroyed.

The Boston has been bereft of all her contents. To-day she was abandoned. Early next week she will be filled with burning

MORE BAD DOLLARS.

Barber Shop at Scranton Used as a Mint by Counterfeiters. SCRANTON, January 5 .- At Dunmore this afternoon, William Degan, alias Kiely, the proprietor of a barber shop, and Bernhard Mechan, were arrested for manufacturing counterfeit money. Beneath the floor of the barber shop there was found a counterfeit outilt. In a coal bin adjacent to the barber shop there was found a canvas sack filled with new dollars.

FLORIDA ALL RIGHT. Health Officials Send Ont Reassuring Bulle-tine to the Tourists. JACKSONVILLE, January 5 .- The Board of Health of Duval county announces that there has not originated a case of yellow fever in the city of Jacksonville for the past 24 days, and none in the county of Duval for the past 14 days. This city is entirely free from epidemic diseases of any kind at the present time, and is perfectly safe for residents and visitors.

The Tariff Bill Then to Go Through and be Sent to the House.

SENATOR QUAY HAS TO GO SOUTH

Twelve legislative days yet remain in which to consider the tariff bill in the Senate. A vote is to be taken on the 21st, and as only 20 pages of the bill, except the free in the list, remain to act upon, the programme will doubtless be carried out and the bill pass on schedule time and sent to the House. Senator Quay forced to leave Washington by the rush of office seekers. Death of a man with an odd history.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] WASHINGTON, January 5 .- Though this s the close of the fifth week since the meeting of Congress, and the tariff bill was taken up the second day after Congress convened, on the first Monday in December, to-day completed only the twentieth day of the disdisposed of before this, with ample time allowed for the usual stump speeches, is evident from the progress made with the bill. Seventy-two pages and 333 paragraphs of the bill have been disposed of. This includes the extended provision for the abolition of the tobacco tax, and really all of the mony. The Blaine men, he said, important schedules except that relating to wools and woolen goods. Only 20 pages remain, preceding the free ist, and most of these are devoted to wools and woolen goods and silks. The remainder are made up of sundries and then comes the ong free list, which may afford basis for humor and sarcasm from the Democratic members, but not much reason for serious PLAYING UPON EMOTIONS. The wool and the woolen schedule is really all that will provoke extended dis-cussion, and the prospects are that every Democratic Senator will have something to say about the poor man's coat and the poor man's blanket, as this will be their last man's blanket, as this will be their last chance to play upon the emotions and sympathies of those who are caught by sentiment instead of facts. With this opportunity they will be able to eke out the remainder of the time which they have fixed for the discussion of the bill.

The agreement was that a vote should be taken on the 21st of this month, and therefore 12 legislative days yet remain for discussion of the bill. Had 4t not been for speeches made purely, for dilatory pur-poses, it is easy now to recognize the fact that the bill might have been through the Senate and sent to the House before the holidays. At any rate there will be no excuse for the Democrats fighting for an extension of time, as some of them talk of doing now. A few important paragraphs have been passed over temporarily at the request of the Republicans, but these can be quickly disposed of.

CAN'T HELP BLUNDERING.

The proceedings of the last few days have not afforded evidence that the Democrats have improved in their knowledge of the question or the bill during the long discussion. Every day some Democrat makes one or more absurd blunders in his interpreta-tion of the bill, such as that of Senator Jones, of Arkansas, to-day, in which he Jones, of Arkansas, to-day, in which he made a heated argument on the assumption that the bill increased largely the duty on certain jute and hemp manufactures because they could be imported at a certain price per pound. After he had thoroughly committed himself, Senator Aldrich astounded him by showing from the list that the price he had quoted was for a yard instead of a pound, and that each yard was supposed to contain two pounds. The fiery Arkansan was completely discomfited, and sat down in great confusion of mind. at down in great confusion of mind. There is no evidence whatever that there will be any disagreement among the Republicans in regard to the bill, as has been recently reported. This is merely the revival of an old story. It is much more likely that the bill will receive Democratic votes than be taken two weeks from Monday, and the bill have a majority on its passage.

that it will lose Republican. The vote will

PLEADING FOR PROTECTION. Sugar Men Ask That the Tariff be not Serl onsly Reduced. WASHINGTON, January 5 .- The subcommittee of the Senate Finance Committee to-day gave a hearing to adelegation of persons interested in the sugar industry. The delegation consisted of Messrs. John Dymond, John Foos, Henry McCall and Henry Miner, all of Louisiana. Mr. Dymond was the speaker and explained that the delegation had come to ask that the sugar sched ule, as proposed by the Senate tariff bill, be modified, on the ground that the 50 per cent reduction in the duty on sugar would ruin the sugar industry, not only in the tropical cane of Louisiana, but also of the beet sugar industry of California, and the sorghum industry of Kansas.

At the hearing this afternoon Mr. Parkinson, of Ft. Scott, Kan., and Representative Peters spoke in behalf of the sorghum producers in Kansas, asserting that if the sugar tariff was undisturbed the business sugar tarin was undisturbed the business would be largely developed in the immediate future. They objected to a bounty because it was likely to be of only temporary duration. Henry C. Minor and Henry McCall, of Louisiana, on behalf of the sugar planters of that State, also spoke against the bounty system and pleaded to be left under the present tariff canditions.

under the present tariff conditions. QUAY HAS TO RUN AWAY.

He is Forced to Go South by the Import unteress of Office Seekers. PEPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1

WASHINGTON, January 5. - Senator Quay returned to the city last evening, but did not make his appearance on the floor of the Senate to-day, as the weather was extremely bad and he felt that he needed rest. He had many callers, but only a very few were admitted to his house. Others than those whom the servant had instructions to admit were told that the Senator was not at home. This is absolutely necessary if the Senator would have any peace at all, as otherwise he would not only not have the cherwise he would not only not have the day to himself, but would be disturbed every nour of the night. He has about concluded to start on Monday for a short visit to Florida, partly for the purpose of securing a good rest, and partly to escape the influx of office seekers whom he does not wish Senstor Cameron is also absent from th Senstor Cameron is also absent from the city, and for the same reasons. He went a few days ago for a visit in South Caroling, with Senstor Butler, who is one of his most intimate friends, and felt so much benefited by the change that he prolonged his stay several days after Mr. Butler's return. It is expected he will again be on the floor of the Senste Monday.

Republican Senators in Washington Firmly Convinced That the Man From Muine Hus Been Assured of the State Portfolio by General

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH. I WASHINGTON, January 5.—The Repub-lican members of the United States Senate, who, it is well known, are almost without exception opposed to J. G. Blaine as a party leader, have heard some startling and unpleasant news from Indianapolis and they talked of nothing else to-day. The reason for the depressed appearance of Senator Hiscock upon his return from Indianapolis yesterday, and the satisfaction expressed by Senator Plumb at the same time, were explained this afternoon by a report that went swift-ly from one Senator to another. It was that President-elect Harrison has practically determined that he cannot escape the necessity of offering Mr. Blaine a seat in the Cabinet. This is not a rumor, but a fact. General Harrison said as much to one of his Senatorial callers and it was commonly talked among the Senators to-day in their private conversa-A Senator who is one of Mr. Blaine's most bitter opponents said this afternoon that from the manner in which the information was conveyed to them there can be little doubt that unless General Harrison within the next few weeks finds some way now unforseen to arrange conflicting interests, he will offer to Mr. Blaine the post of Secretary of State. The particular cause of Hiscock's disappointment is found in the fact that if Mr. Blaine goes into the Cabinet Mr. Platt will remain out of it. Mr. Harrison told his mony. The Blaine men, he said, are numerous and clamorous, and it would be a good stroke of policy to get rid of them all by appointing Blaine, and then telling them that the debt between him and the Blaine people was paid.

AN OLD CHARACTER GONE. of Captain Grant, the Old-Time

Boomer of Capitol Hill. WASHINGTON, January 5 .- Old Captain Grant, who a few years ago was one of the best-known citizens of Washington, died this morning. Before the war he was an architect in New England cities. During the war he had a remarkably thrilling experience, being almost as much in rebel prisons as in the Union army, occupying during four years' service no less than nine, and making three successful escapes. After the war he set up shop in Washington. 'At that time everybody thought that Capitol Hill would be the fashionable quarter of the city, and all the tendency was in that direction. This led Grant and others to organize a gigantic syndicate which bought up or controlled in one way or another nearly all the land on the Capitol hill.

They put up the price to an absurd figure, and thus drove out those who wished to invest in homes. Other speculators took up and began to boom the northwest section. The British Government was induced to locate the legation building far away from the city of that time, in a field of mud. This gave an in petus to the northwest movement pelled. gave an in petus to the northwest movement pelled.

which has never ceased. The Capitol Hill The conviction at once forced itself upon speculators were ruined, and had left as a monument of their folly the Grant block, which is yet one of the finest in the city, which is devoted to the speculation only asked Stone if he had ever played with dogs. but which is devoted to the speculation only of the boarding house keeper, After this downfall, old Captain Grant for years conducted a little real estate office in a tumble-down building just across the street from his famous row, but latterly he has been so blind that he had to abandon usiness altogether. INTERESTING DEVELOPMENTS.

Progress in the Investigation of the Supervising Architect's Office. WASHINGTON, January 5.-The investigation into the conduct of the Supervising Architect's office by a Senate sub-committee began this morning and was conducted in secret. It was developed that Architect Freret has awarded contracts for the preparation of plans for four or five build-ings to architects in Washington, and that clerks employed in his office are working on these plans out of office hours. THE GHOST NOT WALKING.

Director Hirschback Wants Six Months' Salary From Carl Strakosch.

ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH, 1 NEW YORK, January 5 .- Carl Strakosch. who bloomed out as an operatic manager after he became the husband of Clara Louise Kellogg, seems to be having an interesting time in his dual capacity. His greatest troubles are apparently with musical directors, and he is now in hot water with three of them, according to Mr. Joseph Hirschbach, the one who made a trip recently to Harrisburg to harass Mr. Stra-kosch with legal proceedings.

Mr. Hirschbach said to-day that the prima donna's husband owed him a large portion of 26 weeks' salary at $75 a week, which he would have earned according to a verbal contract, if he had not been discharged without cause when the company was in Brooklyn. According to Mr. Hirsch bach, Signor Serrano and the Chicago director are also hunting for money for broken

COOPER APPEALS From the Decision of the Lower Court De claring Him a Fraudulent Debtor. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1

HARRISBURG, January 5 .- The case of Beorge P. Cooper, of the collapsed firm of Cooper, Reynolds & Co., which operated the Lochiel Iron Works, has been appealed to the Supreme Court,

The Dauphin County Court recently decided that he had fraudulently contracted a debt with Hart & Co., Philadelphia, and therefore could not take advantage of the act of 1842, which abolished imprisonment for debt. Cooper's bail has been forfeited and nothing is known as to his where-

TOLLS TOO HIGH. A Competing Bridge to be Built to Overcon

the Difficulty. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.1 HARRISBURG, January 5.—The exto tionate tolls charged by the company which operates the historical bridge spanning the Susquehanna river at this point has led to a movement to organize a company to build an open iron bridge, estimated to cost about $200,000. Meetings are being held in this city and Cumberland county to boom the new enterprise, and nearly $100,000 worth of stock has been subscribed.

A LIZARD IN HER STOMACH.

No Wonder a Canadian Woman Has Not Been Healthy. TORONTO, January 5 .- Physicians to-day relieved Mrs. John Hawkins of a lizard eight inches long and an inch in diameter. She had been treated for various diseases, and suffered great pain for years.

BIT BY A LITTLE DOG. BLAINE HAS GOT IT.

A Yankee Teamster is Seized With Hydrophobia Sometime Later.

FEW OF THE USUAL SYMPTOMS.

Appear in His Case, and He Dies in Spasms of Suffering, But WITHOUT HYSTERIA OR INSANITY.

Physicians in the East are interested in the details of the death of a man from hydrophobia, with none of the usual features of insanity or hysteria. He was taken ill mysteriously and knowing no cause for it. First he was treated for rheumatism, when the doctor reached him, only a couple of days before his death, he found the man unable to swallow liquids without effort. He soon learned that his patient had been bitten by a dog, but had nearly forgotton it. The poor sufferer was conscious and without hysteria till (SPECIAL TRLEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) FALL RIVER, MASS., January 5 .- The case of Thomas Stone, who died on Friday at the Fall River Hospital, of hydrophobia, is of interest to physicians as one in which the usual features of hysteria and insanity were absent. Stone was about 50 years old, a teamster by occupation, indusdeath relieved him.

trious and frugal, and owned a house and lot and a few liorses. He was of splendid physique, about six feet tall, and of phleg-On Wednesday evening he sent for his physician, Dr. William A. Boise, who found him lying on a lounge in good health as far as outward appearance went, and unable to give much account of his trouble, except that he "didn't feel well at all."

He complained of pain in his arm and back, but had nothing definite to complain of except a general feeling of poor health.

As the doctor pressed him for further particulars of his symptoms, he mentioned incidentally that he couldn't swallow, and there seemed to be some trouble with his stomach. He said he had not felt well for two days, but had been at work as usual. That morning his wife had given him some medicine for rheumatism, and he had not been able to eat much breakfast. Later in the forenoon, while at his work, he went into a saloon to get a glass of beer, but was unable to swallow it HE COULDN'T SWALLOW HIS BEER. As he related the incident he seemed to feel more the fact that he could not swallow the beer, which made him the subject of jokes in the barroom, than to imagine that it had anything to do with the symptoms. A cup of tea stood on a table in the room, and the doctor asked him to try and swallow it. He attempted to do so, and as he raised the cup to his lips the doctor noticed Stone answered no. The doctor then asked him if he had ever been bitten by a dog, and Stone again answered no. A few minutes afterward he said he had been bitten by a little black-and-tan dog about three months ago, but had forgotten about it. The dog bit him in the little finger, and he had the wound cauterized.

He then said to the doctor: "You don't think that has anything to do with the way I feel, do you?" The doctor answered that he feared it had. Stone then inquired if he had the hydrophobia, and the doctor replied that he had the symptoms of it. COOLY PREPARED FOR DEATH. Meanwhile the spasms had been recurring, which Stone had been inclined to at-tribute to some trouble in his throat. Father Kiernan, his parish priest, and also an intimate friend, came in at this time, and to him Stone said he had hydrophobia and wanted to prepare for death. He made his will and received the last sacraments. Although he fully realized that there was no hope for him, he was cool and collected, and showed no signs of fear. He asked the doctor to have him removed to the Fall River Hospital, saying that he feared if he remained at home he would go out of his head and hurt somebody. He asked to be put under restraint, so that he could do no During the evening he showed another well-defined symptom of hydrophobis. A draft of air or any one passing him quickly would throw him into a spasm. On Thursday morning he was taken to the hospital. He walked out of his house to the carriage with a firm step, bidding goodbye to his wife, and, without a tear or tremor, stepped into the carriage, which he knew would convey him to his deathbed. During the day his spasms increased in frequency and in force. At noon a consultation of physicians approved the diagnosis of Dr. Dolan, and the latter and Dr. Eddy decided to try treatment by etherization, a method which has not been tried before in case of hydrophobia. ONE CHANCE FOR HIS LIFE. The man had such a splendid physique that it was thought that perhaps the etherization might relieve the strain on his neryous system, so that there might be a chance of preserving his strength sufficiently to re

This treatment was adopted with the patient's consent. Before he was placed under the influence of ether he was told that it might be the last time he would have his mind clear, and he was saked if he had any message to leave. He said no, that he was fully prepared for the worst. He was placed under the influence of ether at 3-30 cover from the spasms.

placed under the influence of ether at 3:30 P. M. on Thursday.

He was not kept etherized continually, but ether would be applied for half an hour and then kept away perhaps an hour. The spasms continued even while the patient was under the influence of ether. Then the curara treatment was tried, but nothing had any effect.

Stone died at 8:45 on Friday morning. He hore himself throughout with the utmost bore himself throughout with the utmost

TURNERS AND THE BLAIR BILL. They Oppose it Because it Provides for the Christian Religion in Schools.

LOUISVILLE, January 5,-In response to circular from the Executive Committee of this district of the Turners' Union, the local organization last night adopted resolutions condemning the Blair educational bill for attempting to introduce the Christian religion into schools. A mass meeting to discuss the bill was appointed for January 13, at which Colonel Robert Ingersoll is expected to be present.

LOUISVILLE, January 5.—President Young, of the Louisville Southern Railroad, has resigned and Theodore Harris has been elected in his place.